

ASYNCHRONOUS SELF-STUDY PROGRAM

The Asynchronous Self-Study Program (ASSP) has been designed for those who want to enjoy all the learning preveliaiges of an online program at a flexible mode.

Enrollment and Calendar

The enrolment for ASSP courses is open at all times, on a rolling basis.

Structure and Duration

Each course consists of eight lessons. Language courses consist of assignments, midterm and final exams. History and culture (music and architecture) courses consist of final exam.

The duration of completion of a course should not exceed 16 weeks. The Registrar's Office will close the record of the student on the 17th week after the enrolment.

The student decides his / her weekly occupation.

Credits

An ASSP Student may receive three credits per course. To receive credits an Asynchronous Student must take a midterm and final exams (for language courses) whenever the student is ready to do so, but no later than by the end of the week 16. Whenever you are ready to complete the exam, email your teacher so as she/he sends you the requirements and password.

“On-Campus” Interaction

“On-campus” interaction refers to communication with peers, and participation in social events and virtual tours.

ASSP program has general forum in which a student may interact with other ASSP students taking any course within/outside their Department.

Details on online socio-cultural events (day, hour, topic) will be provided by your Online Instructor.

Feedback

AVC is grateful for any feedback received from its students at any time in the duration of their studies. All students are expected to complete and submit a survey reflecting on their experience at AVC during the last week of their studies.
